

New Skills for Youth Mini-Grant Recipients for 2017-18

As students head back to school across the state, several districts deserve recognition for their thoughtful work in postsecondary and career readiness that will soon expand thanks to grants awarded by the office of Pathways Tennessee and New Skills for Youth. From externships to elementary career exploration and mentorship programs for high school students, nineteen applicants received almost $190,000 in awards to develop programs that will prepare students for postsecondary and career. Congratulations to the following districts on their awards:

- Alcoa City Schools
- Anderson County Schools
- Blount County Schools
- Bradley County Schools
- Clay County Schools
- Cleveland City Schools
- Fayette County Schools
- Grundy County Department of Education
- Hamilton County Department of Education
- Hawkins County Schools
- Haywood County Schools
- Jackson County Schools
- Knox County Schools
- Marion County Schools
- Maryville City Schools
- McMinn County Schools
- McNairy County Schools
- Meigs County Schools
- Oak Ridge School District
- Overton County Schools
- Rutherford County Schools
- Shelby County Schools

New Skills for Youth mini-grants will be offered again for the 2018-19 school year. For more information, please contact Adriana.Harrington@tn.gov. To see the application that districts completed for the 2017-18 school year, please click here.

